Checklist for team

At the start of the assignment, the team discussed feedback from the previous assignment and focused on finding resources to better understand the task. Then a repository was made with issues and the work was divided among all the group members. For this assignment a focus on more collaboration was made, where the group worked together by using the “Code with me” feature in IntelliJ. This contributed to more in-person meetings and an easier way of helping each other. This follows that the collaboration has been improved between the group members. The group met its commitments and could solve problems that came up along the way of working together.
